

Subject: Noise Research Roadmap Update

We want to thank you for your continual interest in the Noise Research Roadmap. Though we were planning to host the next roadmap meeting in April 2012, we will be unable to host it at that time due to unexpected schedule conflicts and short term budgetary constraints for some key participants. We will be rescheduling the meeting in the future for late summer or early autumn. As soon as we have additional information on the dates, we will be sending out a new Save the Date. We look forward to your continual support and interest in all areas of aviation noise research.

If you have any question, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Thank you.

Becky
